

At Lourdes, bariatric surgery is a family affair.

The Guerrieros were like any other family in Marlton.

And a lot more.

Just four years ago, Maria Guerriero weighed 335 pounds; her husband Robert, 340; their teenage son David, 355. Each had endured a lifetime struggle with obesity.

The Guerrieros turned to the specialists at Lourdes Medical Center of Burlington County who, over the past 10 years, have successfully performed over 1,000 bariatric surgeries with excellent outcomes and a low complication rate.

Results for the Guerriero family have been dramatic: Maria lost 180 pounds; Robert, 140 pounds; and David, 150 pounds.

Pleased with their successful surgeries, the family is equally satisfied with the concern and compassion that continues. Twice each month, they visit Lourdes to participate in a support network that welcomes bariatric patients and candidates.

“We have more energy, better self-esteem and an enthusiasm for living that we never had before,” Maria said, convinced that bariatric surgery at Lourdes was “the best thing we’ve ever done for ourselves.”

A range of bariatric laparoscopic options are expertly performed – including Lap Band, Gastric Bypass, Duodenal Switch and revisions of prior failed weight loss operations.
